ROBBERS

Attempt to Steal The Land Office.

But Don't Get Away with it.

The South Side Town Site Owners and the Dominion Land Agent put up the Job.

But the Citizens Produce convincing
Arguments Why it Should Not Go Through.

Are Abbott and Thompson a Party to the Steal?

The Agent Should Go, Not the Office.

Edmonton is usually a quiet place, a very quiet place. There are people who say that it is positively dull. On Saturday last it was, if possible, more quite than usual—up to about three o'clock in the afternoon. After that hour and until late midnight it was undoubtedly the most alive, lively, excited, exciting and generally interesting place in all Canada, or its colonies in North or South Dakota, or Washington. There was the biggest kind of a circus on. There was more fun than could be furnished by a barrel of monkeys. Five hundred men with blood in both eyes were engaged in demonstrating that even in this dull town, in this peaceful country, physical force as a means of maintaining public right is not played out. The occasion of the demonstration was the attempt, on the part of the land agent, to remove the land and timber offices to the South Side of the river, for the purpose of assisting in booming the property of Osler, Hammond & Nanton there situated, in a large slice of which property the agent has an interest. To understand why there was such a sudden and unanimous outburst of public feeling it is necessary to understand the history of the affair.

The town of Edmonton, which was incorporated in February last, has been the centre of trade, settlement, civilization and authority in this part of the country for a hundred years past, through the fact of the existence of an important Hudson's Bay post here and springing up near it of the present town. The town has been recognized by the government for the past ten or fifteen years as the capital of the district by the location here of the land, timber, registry and post offices, holding the sittings of the court, etc. People invested in property, erected buildings, transacted business, until at present the assessed value of the property in the town is over half million dollars. When the Calgary & Edmonton railway was constructed the contract required that the road should terminate on the banks of the Saskatchewan at or near Edmonton. The contractors took part of the pay for the construction of the road in the town sites that might be established at its several stations. They refused all inducements offered to bring the railway across the river, although nine-tenths of the freight of the road is for the north side, and determined to make a speculative town site on the south side, on the strength of the road not crossing the river at present, although it is chartered to cross the Saskatchewan and go on to Peace river. They hoped to use the name and prestige of Edmonton that the pioneers here had built up in years of toil and disappointment to boom their paper town and to ruin Edmonton if possible. In locating their town they did not even condescend to locate it on the river bank, as the charter required, only bringing it to the bank of the valley, well knowing that as trade increased the road would have to be extended to the river and thereby sidetrack their town. But as they saved a few thousands in construction they did not care for that. They hoped to carry everything with a rush. That they would be able to sell hundreds of lots at high figures, on the strength of the railway terminus, and then let those who bought find out their mistake. But their scheme did not materialize. The real town went ahead rapidly and their town hung fire. In locating their town site they arranged with certain property owners on the south side for a half interest in their several claims free. Of these claims one was held by the timber and land agent, Thos. Anderson or his son. On this claim the station was located and on this property the bulk of the improvements were made, of course, enhancing the value of the half interest retained in the claim. Not unnaturally the land agent became a most enthusiastic advocate of the interests of the railway schemers, and as enthusiastically opposed to the interests of Edmonton. It was frequently threatened by those who were booming the terminus that they would bring influence to bear on the government to have the public offices removed to the South Side, and on account of these threats Senator Girard asked Premier Abbott at last session of parliament if such was the government's intention. He was assured that it was not. A month or two ago the town sent a delegation to Ottawa to press certain matters upon the notice of the government, and amongst other things they were informed by the minister of public works that the necessary government buildings would be erected on a site chosen years before in the town, and that they would be erected this year. In view of these assurances no attention was paid to the efforts of Osler, Hammond & Nanton, agents of the C. & E. Company, or of Mr. Anderson to secure the removal of the public offices to the South side. However, on Thursday last, J. Mc. D. Gordon, inspector of land agencies, arrived and gave notice to Mr. Anderson that he was authorized to remove his office to a box car which had been leased from the railway company, pending the completion of an office then under construction, but the purpose of which was, till then, unknown. The reason given for the removal was to suit the convenience of new settlers. At the same time the lease of the building occupied in Edmonton had not expired. Mr. Gordon left on Friday morning without its visit or its object being publicly known. Everything ran smoothly along until Saturday when Mr. Anderson ordered the dray company to send him a team to remove furniture, but did not say what furniture. The teams went to his house about three o'clock in the afternoon, and he accompanied them to the land office, commencing at once to load the books. The first intimation anyone had of the proposed move was seeing the books loaded on the drays. The town graders happened to be at work near the land office and saw what was going on. In a few minutes they and an angry crowd of citizens had gathered around the office while the alarm was sent all over town. While the main crowd was gathering the nuts were taken off the wagon axles and the horses unhitched so that the stuff already loaded could not be moved. In a very short time not less than 200 men were around the land office determined to know why the promises made so definitely by the government were broken and their interests so wantonly attacked. Mr. Anderson drove to the police barracks for assistance and two policemen arrived promptly on the scene, but under the circumstances were unable to do anything as they could not move the wagons without horses, and other horses were not to be had. Telegrams were sent to all the members of the cabinet, to Davis, Davin, Macdowall, Senators Lougheed, Girard, and Sir Donald A. Smith, stating the facts of the case and asking an explanation. A mass meeting of citizens was assembled in front of the land office, about 8 o'clock. Inspector Piercy arrived about the same time. Just then, four teams from the South side, who had been telephoned for by Mr. Anderson, arrived. The horses were taken from the wagons by the crowd, and the drivers informed that they must not interfere. Finally horses and wagons were driven across the river and tied up on the other side. There was some slight disturbance while this was going on, but nothing serious occurred. The meeting was addressed by Mayor McCauley who put the following resolutions which were carried unanimously with cheers for the resolutions and groans for the agent. The resolutions were telegraphed to Ottawa in the following form:

(1) That in the opinion of this meeting the removal of the government lands and timber offices is contrary to the wishes and detrimental to the best interests of nine-tenths of the population of this district.

(2) That the government be requested to cancel the instructions of J. M. Gordon, acting commissioner to the local agent here directing the immediate removal of the land and timber office to the South Side of the river and that the local agent be instructed to return office records and furniture (now in course of removal) to the Edmonton office as reasons given for removal are false.

(3) That in the opinion of this meeting Mr. Thos. Anderson the local agent here, for personal and pecuniary interests has improperly interested himself in securing the removal of the land and timber office from this place to the South Side of the river, and that while the citizens of Edmonton have foreborne the making of any charges along this line in the past they deem it to be in the best interests of the government that he be removed at once.

(4) That pending the receipt of a reply from the department of interior in reference to said removal the citizens of Edmonton and vicinity be a committee with power to add to their numbers to prohibit removal and that a copy of the resolutions be wired the Premier.—Carried unanimously.

(Signed) M. McCauley,
Mayor.

A citizens guard was being formed to hold the loaded wagons until answers had been received from Ottawa, when Insp. Piercy offered to put on a police guard, which would protect the property from injury and at the same time would hold it until word had been received from Ottawa. This was agreed to with cheers and the meeting dispersed. Excited groups remained around the streets until a late hour and a proposition to burn the land agent in effigy found such favor that although the police interfered in one case, the project was finally carried out amid much enthusiasm at the flag pole between McDougall's store and the Imperial bank.

Sunday passed quietly, the police guard remaining in charge of the wagons, and a citizen's guard remaining as well.

This (Monday) morning Supt. Griesbach arrived.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, JUNE, 20, 1902

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

The Baptist ministerial association objects so the use of government funds in the establishment of so called Indian industrial schools throughout the Northwest which are placed under the control of religious denominations. The BULLETIN desires to endorse the opinion expressed that it is no part of the duty of the state to provide religious instruction, and particularly denominational religious instruction, at the public expense. It further desires to say that if it were the duty of the state to do so, in its humble opinion these schools are a gigantic swindle on the tax payers of Canada. If they have a legitimate object it is to perform the miracle of making white men out of Indians, something that the laws of nature, which are the laws of God, do not provide for. We have at present, in the Northwest, four of these schools in working condition and a fifth being erected. They are buildings which, in cost and fittings, although not in architectural beauty, would be a credit to any city of the east. They are kept up at an annual expense that would support a good white man's college—a cost greater than the amount of aid which the whole of the public schools of the Northwest receive from the federal treasury—an aid which is being stinted every year, while that on the Indian Industrial schools is being increased. And the only possible result which they can attain in the attempt to do an utterly impossible act is failure. Supposing the attempt succeeds, what does it amount to? If a fair proportion of the Indian children passed through these schools are turned out whites in everything but color, it still leaves the great mass of the Indian population just where they were, to be civilized by the education of necessity and example in slow degrees. And what would this mass be worse or better if the few children taken by the schools were not taken? It is desirable that Indian children, showing aptitude and inclination for study and the ways of civilized life, should have the opportunity to improve afforded. Such children can be found by the missionaries or teachers engaged in working amongst the Indians, and may be sent to eastern educational institutions where, surrounded by civilized influences in their most concentrated form, they have the chance, if anywhere, to become white men in thought as well as dress, and thereby become useful to their people; as they have not by being herded in an industrial school where they see and know civilization only as a taskmaster and therefore as an enemy, and only recognize it in the shape given by the mind and methods of whoever happens to be their teacher. But the christianizing influence assured by placing these schools under denominational control? It is a great, noble and holy idea that souls can be saved at so much per dozen, or that the Industrial school is like a pork factory where the raw Indian is taken in and is turned out civilized and christianized in so many minutes, more or less, according to the more or less improved machinery employed. The very first idea of civilization or christianity, self reliance, is the one thing that the Industrial school is peculiarly constituted to, as far as possible, destroy.

The Indian industrial schools of the Northwest are simply political bribes to the several religious denominations which have been given charge of them. An acknowledgment of the prestige and influence of these denominations and accepted by them as a means of still further increasing their power and prestige.

EXCURSIONS.

Some time ago the BULLETIN alluded to the desirability of establishing a Northwest summer tourist route of which one link would be a steamboat journey down the Saskatchewan from Edmonton to Prince Albert. Since then the C. P. R. have made Northwest summer excursions a strong feature, with Edmonton and Prince Albert as their principal objective points. Also the navigation company have fitted up their best steamer, the Northwest, for excursions and other business around Prince Albert. All that is necessary is that an arrangement should be arrived at between the steamboat company and railway company—an arrangement that would be of benefit to both—whereby the steamboat would bring a party of excursionists from Prince Albert to Edmonton and then meeting the next excursion here return with as many as desired to Prince Albert. The river is at a splendid stage for navigation. Only in this way can a true idea of the agricultural value of the Northwest be obtained. The traveller who sees a thousand miles of lake plain and only a hundred miles of park country at Edmonton and Prince Albert, not only does not know the full value of the country, but gets an incorrect idea regarding its value, that is very injurious to every interest which depends upon the progress of the Northwest. The C.P.R. is establishing tourist routes on the lakes of British Columbia, where they have no landed interest. Why not much more on the Saskatchewan which flows through C. P. R. lands for 500 miles, and has beauty that is not excelled in the world.

ROBBERS.

rived from Fort Saskatchewan with twenty policemen. He left the police at Rat Creek, outside the town limits, and came in alone. As soon as the arrival of the police was known the supposition became general that the intention was to forcibly remove the office. To meet this possibility Mayor McCauley, councillor Cameron and J. A. McDougall, J. P.'s, issued an order calling out the home guards organized in '85 by General Strange, to keep the peace—that is the land office. At 1 p.m. nearly every able bodied man in town—most of them armed—appeared at the town clerk's office, ready for any event. Up to 4 o'clock (this writing) the police have not appeared and quiet reigns.

ST. ALBERT.

On Sunday afternoon a mass meeting of the St. Albert settlers was held near the bridge to consider the land office question. The meeting was addressed by A. Prince, M. L. A., and the following resolutions carried unanimously:

To the Hon. Edgar Dewdney.

At a mass meeting of the electors of St. Albert electoral district it was unanimously resolved as follows:

"That the government of Canada be prayed in the interests to the largest, most populous and wealthiest district of the Northwest not to move the land office across the Saskatchewan river but to leave it at Edmonton where it is now.

That it is the interest of all the Northern Alberta that the land office should remain at Edmonton, saving to nine-tenths of the farmers of this country the time and money necessary to cross the river whenever they have business to the land office.

That it is the opinion of this meeting that this trouble is due to the false representations of the actual land agent, a party pecuniarily interested in the future of the surroundings of the C. & E. station on the south shore of the river; and we are unanimous in declaring that he is a bad servant of the interests of this country and that the government should dismiss him at once."
